

Changing the Module of Study

Upon request and with approval, students in a one-year exchange program may change the module of their study in the second semester of the program. Module changes are only allowed at the beginning of the second semester, and not during the semester. To change the module, submit the designated application form to the Office of the Center for Global Education and Japanese Studies by the following dates.

For students who enrolled in the spring semester and wishing to change the module in the fall semester:
June 1st

For students who enrolled in the fall semester and wishing to change the module in the spring semester:
December 1st

* If the above dates fall on a Saturday or Sunday, the deadline will be the next day the office is open.
